

ABSTRACT

Disclosed is a process for forming an organometallic cyclometallated iridium compound comprising reacting an iridium halide complex 5 with a silver salt and excess organic cyclometallating ligand in a diol solvent.
The process provides better yields and control of desired isomers.